~ The Energy of Merlia ~

There is a wonderful silence in the air in this moment. Listen and you will hear the heart beat of the Earth herself. The anticipation is great. Throughout the kingdom there is awareness that the magical energy is about to re-visit the Earth. This energy has visited the Earth before in other forms to aid at crucial junctures. We know this truth by many names. There is one rule that must be observed prior to any visitation on the Earth. We, the players on the gameboard, must consciously request it.

There have been many times in our past here on the gameboard when we did ask for this energy to visit. In most instances we were not ready to accept the information it offered. Most often we refused to accept its truth. Still it always came when we asked. The energy came willingly to plant seeds of truth that oftentimes would not be reaped until generations later. With each return it offered an abundance of unconditional love and compassion. This energy most often manifested as a teacher, for this was our way of understanding in the lower vibrations of planet Earth. Now for the first time this energy prepares to return to Earth as an equal. As humans begin to carry more of their own power we can now see that walking side by side with this energy will quickly lead us to the creation of home on this side of the veil.

I have attempted to write about this several times and every time there has been a block to putting this information out in its rightful form. I am once again feeling the gentle nudge from the Group to offer this story of a grand tale. If I am blocked in any way I will place it aside once again and wait until humanity calls openly for it. Somehow, this time I think it will be presented.

The Group falls silent in reverence as she steps into the room. Here in all of her magnificence she stands before us ready to walk alongside each one. Due to the work we have done and the clearing we have accomplished we have called her in. It is now time. It is now the Time of Merlia. .

The Group:

We have greeted this gathering of masters many times with a heartfelt honoring. We have attempted to show you in each one of our visits just how special you are to us and to all that is. We have had only limited successes in conveying to you how much you are loved for the experiences you endure on the gameboard. You look at your daily life and see only as far as the end of your nose. You do not see that each obstacle you overcome opens the door for many others. We do see this clearly and we thank you for your work. You have successfully increased the vibratory rate of the collective. You have taken control at a critical time on the gameboard. You have accepted your power when it was handed to you even though you did not fully understand it.

The colors you will carry from this time forward will mark you among the elite of the Universe. You are the special ones for you are the players of free choice. The work you have done has made the planet safe for many to follow. This day we speak to you of the return to the Gameboard of the Merlia energy. This is only possible because of the Lightwork you have done for so long. The clearing of yourselves for the purpose of carrying Light and the clearing of the planet has made room for this to take place. We are honored to play a role in the introduction of this material for it will forever change the manner in which you play the game.

Many in your higher vibrations have felt the undeniable pull of the tales you call Camelot. You may know that these are myths that have been written for your amusement. No matter the image held in your head, you also know in your heart that they hold great truth. We will offer a simple explanation, for this is so often how spirit speaks to each one of you. We have explained how your own advancement on the DNA level has opened your perceptions of other dimensions of time. We tell you that these carriers of truth begin at the intersection where these dimensions cross one another.

As a path of reality travels forward following the duality of linear time, it often crosses the path of another reality occupying the same time and space. These realities intersect only for a brief moment yet, as they move on, they leave an indelible impression. The energy of each reality leaves its stamp on the other, leaving behind permanent memories lasting for eons. It is no wonder to us that these incidents are often recorded. Because the realities differ so much they are most often written about as myths or fictional stories. We ask you to follow the truth of the information here and not your judgment of its origin.

The stories of these times have been placed in your reality for a reason. Look at the many important seeds planted by this one intersection of alternate realities. The idea of the boy who would be King with no royal lineage behind him, speaks of the right to claim the power that each one of you holds. The nature of the game you are playing is to re-member your powers and to use those powers to re-create home on your side of the veil. Was it not King Arthur who created his idea of Heaven on Earth under the name of Camelot? It was striving for the attainment of this goal that set the stage for so many others to create their own ideas of Heaven on Earth. This led to a space in the new government where room was created for the empowered human.

The idea behind the round table was that no one person was to be in charge. This speaks loudly of the principles we have been offering you for living in the higher vibrations of the new planet Earth. Allowing space for all to take their own power is the way of emulating Universal energy. The idea was proven that to expect greatness from one another would set the stage for that greatness to surface. The paradigm shifted from follow the leader to follow your own truth, as space is made for the empowered human.

Now we will speak again of your true power. We tell you time and again that you have no idea how powerful you really are. You are a finite expression of the infinite creator and as such you have the same powers as the creator. You have only to re-member that they are there and how to use them. Where you allow your thoughts to reside creates your own reality in each moment. This is confusing for you because of the time lag that has served you well as a buffer. In the higher dimensions to which you are aspiring you will see this much more clearly for the time lag is lessening even in your world at this moment. The power you hold is magical indeed and more powerful than even you could imagine.

We equate this to the time of Camelot when the figure of power was referred to as Merlin. Merlin was a craftsman of power and its uses. Human as he was, he had studied and learned the ways of the magician. We tell you this is much like the powers you are now uncovering within yourselves. Like Merlin it is necessary for each one to exercise these muscles for full development. When these powers are fully understood the deeds of Merlin will seem pale by comparison. Let us also re-mind you that Merlin was the one who lived backward in time. This idea of intentional time control illustrates similar concepts we have helped you re-member. Merlin was the representation of natural power because his power was equal to his alignment with the Universal principals. His strength came from his union with all that is. Such is true for all power. No one can be powerful unto themselves for it is the union with all things that generates the power.

There are many seeds that were successfully planted in the collective consciousness of the planet with this single illustration. The hope that was presented in the symbol of Excalibur stands to this day. This is the same sword you see with your interpretation of the one you call Michael. This is the Sword of Truth and always stands to re-mind you that your power is in standing firm with what you know in your own heart. Stand firm in your truth and you will be in your power.

In the days of Camelot it was only the boy of pure heart that was able to remove the sword from the stone. The integrity of the boy Arthur was an illustration of the truth as known from within. Finding that truth within and having the courage to follow that truth is what makes the connection stronger. Exercising this connection is the process of learning to walk with full connection to your higher self. Find your sword and hold it dear.

Until recently the illustrations represented in these stories were usually seen through the eyes of the male energy. This has to do with polarity on the gameboard. Polarity has provided you with the means of existence on the gameboard yet it taints your vision drastically. You see things as separate when they are not. This leads to a belief in lack when there is none. As you believe then so you create. This is the simple nature of the game as played on the Gameboard of free choice.

Movement into Plan B means moving from a field of polarity to a field of wholeness. This is a concept that may be difficult for some to assimilate. Some of your belief systems have been built on judgment rather than discernment. It is these judgments that create energy strings that always tie you to that which you have judged. We re-mind you that we have often said that there is no judgment on our side of the veil, other than that which you bring with you.

Judgment is only possible within a field of polarity. As you move out of this field of polarity it will be necessary to re-evaluate these core belief systems. Opening to the potential of wholeness brings new strength and wisdom. This is now in progress on your planet. You are now in movement from a field of polarity to a field of completeness. With that movement comes a new complete vision.

It is this movement that has cleared the way for the full expression of female energy to return to planet Earth. This is not a time of dominance or competition, for those are strictly illusions of polarity. As seen through the eyes of whole beings, this is a return to full and complete natural power. Because of the clearing work you have done on this planet this is now possible. The full feminine energy can once again return to the planet and make it whole. This is the full compliment of the Yin and the Yang supporting each other in their wholeness. This is a return to the whole reflection of God within each one of you.

It is with great pride that we tell you that the time of Merlia is now upon you. It is you that have made this possible through your choices on the gameboard. Because of the work you have chosen to do, you have made it possible for the full feminine energy to return and unite with the whole. You can clearly see that this reunion has begun on your planet. The numbers on your planet have never been so large and yet your crime rates have continued to decline.

You are making a difference and changing your world with each thought that enters your heart. It is this balance between the head and the heart that so clearly shows the remembering of Merlia. Making space for this part of each one of you will enable the remembering process to continue. Balance the third dimensional thinking with the feelings from your own heart and watch the magic return.

Merlia is the Merlin energy returning to Earth in feminine form to offer the balance needed for the step out of polarity into wholeness. This return has been prophesied in many of your writings. We ask you to make space for Merlia as she returns to offer her balance. She does not come to sit in judgment or to be a leader of humanity. This was indicative of the old energy. The Second Wave has opened a new energy of walking within self-empowerment. She offers to walk alongside each one of you and balance the energy of the planet naturally. She represents an opportunity to utilize your full power by incorporating all aspects of yourself.

Until recently it was not safe for this energy to return, but through your choices you have made it so. You now see evidence of this progression in your collective thinking. Women are making advances in many areas on the gameboard at this time. This will continue as this energy gently assimilates and naturally finds a balance. This energy has been mistrusted and suppressed for some time. Now it will find its way back to seek a natural balance. Balancing the heart and the head will open doors never thought possible.

Once the energy equilibrium is reestablished on the planet, the doors will open for the next phase of evolution of humanity. This will be the introduction of those of crystal vibration onto the planet. These are gentle beings that will be the next incarnation of humanity on planet Earth. They will bring you to understand the full implications of walking hand in hand with your own higher self. This will mark a time of peace on the planet that has never before been known.

It is your own daily struggle with life in the third dimension that has cleared the way for this to unfold. It was only possible to build the gameboard in this fashion. Many of you look at your daily life and feel stuck because there is so much you want to do. So often you say, "If only I had this or that then I would be able to do what I came here to do." We tell you that with the veils firmly in place it is not possible for you to see the effect you have already had.

We tell you that you have already changed the outcome many times over. This was only possible in this manner. You have chosen to redefine the game. These seeds of our own evolution and the new game have already been planted. You have done very well preparing the soil. We are deeply honored to be a small part of this process. Through your actions and choices you have called the original families back together once again. This reunion is a grand one indeed and is not limited to your side of the veil. We, too, have been reunited with a part of our family that we thought was all but lost. We are joyful to see you return. Welcome home.

It is with the greatest of love that we ask you to treat each other with respect, nurture one another and play well together- - - - - The Group

I can't help but wonder... who will pick up the pen and write the continuance of the story?

The birds sit in silence as the wind holds its breath. Anticipation is everywhere.

A miracle is about to happen.

Thanks for allowing me to be here.

Just for a moment take everything that is in your field of consciousness and place it in that wooden box over there next to the door. Those thoughts will wait there for you and you can reclaim them if you wish on your way out. Now this time is for you.

~The Beacons of Light Meditation~

~ The return of Merlia ~

Allow your energy to settle naturally and effortlessly. This is a time when you do something for yourself. When you are ready breathe in and feel the energy entering through the top of your head. It travels throughout your entire body finding its way into the Earth through your feet. This energy is familiar you think, and then it takes you deeper into the journey. You find yourself in a crowd moving as part of the whole.

There is a charge of excitement in the air as the crowd moves toward its destination. We all turn the corner and find ourselves in the exact location at the base of the mountain where this game originally began. Each one takes the same seat they had the day we first designed the gameboard. A call has gone out to all places for the players to gather once again. As you settle in, look around to see all the members of your family of light. The memories of home instantly fill you with a joy that you had almost forgotten.

Ahhh~~~ to lift the veil for even a moment brings such joy. The vibrations of home flood your being and in that instant you are whole and free. This body is much lighter than the one you are used to. As this feeling emanates within your being you re-member the times on the gameboard when you experienced these glimpses of home. Now it is all coming back to you. Wow! What a game! I can't believe those veils work so well! You look to your sister standing next to you and recognize her as one you know from the gameboard. For a moment a wave of anger overcomes you as you identify her as one playing the part of your enemy. Then your clarity returns and you re-member that it was only a game. The wonderful vibrations of home return once again as these feelings of anger leave you. Its funny how that works. It seems that two vibrations cannot occupy the same space at the same time.

A brother now stands and calls this family meeting to order. There is a reason we are here for this brief interlude from the game. We are here to discuss the options that lay before us. In fact someone is here to present those options to us. She is one you all know deep within your heart. She is here to help us balance for this next phase of the game. As the family grows silent she is introduced with a reverence that reflects her prominence. "It is with the greatest of love that I give you.....Merlia."

Complete silence falls over the crowd and Merlia speaks:

"The information I bring with me this day is accompanied with the greatest of honor from all sides of the veil. You on the gameboard have played your parts far beyond what was expected and what I bring you today are crystals of honor to carry with you always. These are given to you now in honor of your part on this gameboard of free choice. You have taken this great experiment to an unexpected level, a level that has allowed us to alter the paradigm of all that is to come. As a token of our gratitude, we offer these crystals to carry with you always. These crystals may be used in many ways in your experience on the gameboard. With this crystal your vibrations will precede you in all things. All that encounter you from this day forward will know of your magnificence and the role you played on the gameboard of free choice."

Just then she waves her hand and a tingling feeling vibrates throughout your whole being. Looking down you see a beautiful crystal laying in your hand.

She continues speaking; "As this grand game draws to a close the plan set forth is now in need of alteration. As the last moments of the Game approach, many of you have begun to re-member your powers. It is therefore time to redefine the gameboard of free choice to make room for the expression of this power. Many of you have been on the gameboard time and again only to find how efficient are the veils we have designed. Many times have we passed each other along our paths to glimpse into each others eyes and not see who we were. It has been a Grand experiment and much was learned. On the gameboard of free choice you have looked into your hearts and re-membered the part of the whole that you are. This was not expected and has allowed a new understanding of the one truth."

"As the gameboard shifts to the next level it will be your option to stay and play in the new energy if you wish. For those choosing to stay it will be a time of change as you raise your vibrational level to match that of the new Earth. The biology will begin to change as a new vibration presents itself on the Earth. These changes may seem challenging for some as you have nothing to compare them to. Please turn to each other during this process, as it will ease the pain. This alteration will allow you to comfortably carry your own light. It will allow you to step into the next level of the game while still within your bubble of biology."

"Now is a time to re-member who you are. There is one easy way to set about the changes you desire. The easiest way to accomplish this task is to look at yourself through the eyes of those belonging to your original spiritual family. Now is a time where you have called these beings back into your field. You have done so to allow you to re-member your true nature and your power. When we come together in this fashion we gain strength from each other. Even brief encounters forever alter your field. Make space in your lives to find these people and look into their eyes. Here you will see the truth and re-member who you really are. Once you have seen this truth you will never again fall back to lower vibrations. Send out the vibration and seek them out, for they hold the truth about you and your true family of light. It is time to re-member who you really are."

As the last echo of her voice faded she transformed into a dragonfly and was gone. Somehow you knew you'd see her again and in that knowing a sense of completeness filled your being. Rising now to leave you re-member the words of Merlia about making room for your original spiritual family. Just then you look to the person standing next to you. For just a second that person returns your glance. In that second your brain is filled with memories that flood your senses. Memories from a long forgotten time, a magical time when everything was possible. These were memories from a time when you walked fully in your own power. These were wondrous times indeed. Moving from one person to the next, now as each one crosses your path you find an opportunity to look into their eyes and re-member. Here the truth can hide no longer. Now it is moving. It has begun.

A sense of gratitude fills your being as you understand how special it is to be here at this time. The next level of the game holds so many possibilities. It will be wonderful to walk in daily life and hold this much energy. This will be a time of greatness on the planet and you will be very much a part of it. Returning home now you find yourself sitting in the chair where you began this journey as a question forms in your mind. "What if I lose my direction? What if I can't re-member?" you think to yourself..... Just then your hand begins to vibrate as it has only once before. Looking down you see a beautiful crystal in the palm of your hand.....and you re-member.

And so it is- - - - -
